Section A:

COMPREHENSION

Read the following passage carefully before answering the questions. (25)

The pigeon and the crow

Once a pigeon lived in a basket in a kitchen. A greedy crow flying by saw the tasty food in the kitchen and thought, 'How can I get that food?' He came up with a plan.

He followed the pigeon one morning. 'What do you want Crow?' said the pigeon. 'We don't eat the same food.'

'I like you! Let's be friends and we can look for food together,' said Crow.

The pigeon agreed. But the crow pretended to eat worms. When he was tired of pecking he said, 'Pigeon let's go back to the kitchen.'

A few days later, the cook bought fish. The crow longed for fish! He came up with another plan.

The next morning he was in the basket groaning.

'What's the matter, Crow?' asked Pigeon.

'Oh dear! I have a sore stomach!' said Crow.

'Stay here and get better,' said Pigeon, and flew away to find food.

The cook prepared all the dishes, and then stood at the kitchen door to rest. 'Now's my time!' thought Crow, and he alighted on a dish with fish. But the cook saw Crow and caught him. He plucked the feathers off Crow's head.

'That's for spoiling my master's dinner and making me throw it away!' said the cook, and threw the crow into his basket.

When Pigeon returned he said, 'What happened, Crow?'

Crow replied, 'I was greedy and got caught.'

Pigeon flew away, saying, 'I can't live with you any longer.'
